

FACTORS THAT MAKE FOR BULL MARKET PROJECTS

The next bull market will differ from past bull markets
Everything won't PUMP.

Don't expect that everything you buy will pump because it's bull market.

You will be highly disappointed this time.

Only just about 2% of projects in the market will pump out of over 2 million crypto assets according to coinmarketcap.com.

If everything won't Pump.

Then knowing projects worth investing in is a key factor for profitability in the bull market.

I'm sure the reason you paid for this eBook is that you don't have thousands of dollars in capital to buy as many projects as you can.

It might even be that you can't even boast of $1k capital in your portfolio right now.

This is why wasting your capital buying projects that won't pump will bring endless regret.

As that will make you wait for another 5-10 years for another bull market.

That's if there is going to be another bull market after the one we are anticipating right now.

Long story short.

You need to understand that...

Before a bull market - capital is king.

After a bull market - Profit is king.

Capital management & what projects you buy with your capital can make you rich or even send you a step further to poverty.

As such, if you're buying projects for the bull market.

It must meet two vital factors:

(1) It must be a project with at least 50X profit potential

(2) It must be projects that meet the bull market sentiment

The problem with these factors is that many people don't know projects that will do 50X.

And 98% of people don't even know the Factors that contribute to bull market sentiment.

To help you out.

I have given you the list of 100 projects that will do at least 10X - 100X in the bull market.

However, I won't leave you without teaching you a few hints on how to identify 50X profit potential projects.

By helping you with the knowledge, you can always do the work yourself instead of depending on me.

Key factors to look out for when trying to identify Projects with 50X Profit potential for the bull market

(1) The project must have great tokenomics - small market capitalization, small circulating supply, good, in-time, and transparent developers.

(2) Check the project's last all-time high and compare it with the current price - if that gives you 50X, you're making progress

(3) Check the project's social media handle - when last they posted about their projects, any recent partnership, the number of users that follow them, and the activeness of their community.

(4) Check for hype - do research to see if the projects ever trended on Twitter or any other platforms. The best of it is if it has consistently been trending.

(5) Check the trading volume on different CEX exchanges in the past year - that will help you track if people are interested in the project or not

(6) Check if the project has pumped or progressively growing in the past year - if not, the likelihood of no pump in the bull market

(7) Check the whales buy activities in the past 6 months - there are not enough buy activities than sell activities - it's a red sign, if no buying activity at all, a big red sign - not really a core deciding factor but it does contribute (I will share with you a telegram group to track whales buy and sell activities).

(8) Check for a long period of accumulation - you can check this on the project chart looking at how long the chart has been consolidating or moving up and down without a parabolic pump.

These factors contribute to Identifying possible 50X projects to buy.

On the other hand, what is bull market sentiment and how do you know projects that qualify for the bull market sentiment.

(1) The project price will start growing - avoid projects that haven't increased in price in the past 8 months - there are likely dead projects

(2) People often talk positively about the project often in review sites and on social platforms

(3) The trading volume of the project is likely to increase in the past 4 months

(4) The project is new, done airdrops recently, and is hyped

(5) The project has experienced buying pressure and pumps in the past 4 months

This is how you know a project that qualifies for bull market sentiment.